The Colorado Senatorship.

The announcement that the senatorial race ia Colorado is between Mr. Teller and Mr. Wolcott will attract national attention. Both affect the American right of way for a are able men. Mr. Teller has no showy qualities, but he is a strong debater, and his long service in public life has been rich in opportunity. For years he stood in the | ton bombardments might put the enterprise front rank of republican leaders. Mr. Wolcott, in addition to ripe talents as a lawyer, is one of the most brilliant men in the country. He is an orator of the first class. ment proposes to be represented at the and his disappearance from the Senate was regretted all the more sincerely because of the loss of his great gift to a body none too rich in eloquence as now constituted.

Mr. Teller is now a full-fledged democrat. just how congenial his new associations ered from one of his recent speeches. At Central City last week he said in addressing a democratic convention:

When I left the republican party in 1896 I should then have affiliated myself with the democratic organization, as I desired to do. But it was deemed wiser that I affiliate with the silver republicans. 'My sentiments have always been demo-

The refusal of the lowagust, but the action in Ohio, dictated by The same men who threw up their hats and shouted themselves hourse at Sandusky for Bryan and Bryanism had dictation of Mr. McLean and Col. Mr. Johnson himself made no secret of his He stated very frankly that he had never been in favor of free coinage of silver at 16 to 1, and was not then in favor of it. This then showed that the whole demonstration was as hollow as a winter

What caught Mr. Bryan was the personal compliment which accompanied the proceeding. That was an offering which touched his heart. Has not Mr. Bryan been hailed at one time or another as the greatest of orators, the most fearless of leaders, the best friend of the people, and the wisest of men? Have not great crowds surrounded him at every stopping place, and applauded like wild commonplace expressions which had already done duty on a thousand stumps? What man could have kept his head on straight while such a hurricane of popularity was blowing? Who would not have lost his bearings to some extent, and abandoned the actual for the imaginary?

Still, in this matter, Mr. Bryan shows weakness. He should be able to see that, with the Ohio man in the White House, we should not have Bryanism but Johnsonism as the national policy, and that this makes his complaint against the Iowa and Wisconson democrats a bit illogical and not far from stupid.

Punish the Bribe-Givers.

The good work for municipal purification now in progress in St. Louis will not be complete until it accomplishes the detection republicans. I consider the democratic organization the party of the people and for the people, and in it is the future hope of the votes of the corrupt city legislators. the people, and it is the future hope of this great government of ours. The laws against bribery could profitably be made more severe. In the present instance every scrap of public franchise or privilege vested by the laws which have corruption should be forfelted. Every partleipant in the transaction should go to prison. The punishment should be made so severe that even the most corrupt legislator and grasping capitalist would refrain from running the risk of engaging in a bargain leading possibly to the peniten-

The books of corporations seeking or securing favors and rights from state or city should be at all times open to public inspection, with reports presented at intervals to auditing officers. Bribe money can, of course, be charged to some blanket account, such as "operating expenses." "legal expenses" or "profit and loss." Bu a shrewd examination of the books would in nine out of ten cases yield ground for a suspicion if corrupt bargains had been outlays for improper purposes. The city, to a certain extent a partner in the business of corporations employing the public utilities, has an undoubted right to know how their money is spent.

The Monroe doctrine is not interpreted as assuming to save the South American republics from reasonable punishment. It merely holds itself in readiness to step in and prevent them from being eaten alive.

Trees and Live Wires.

How many more trees are there in the city through the branches of which pass bare electric wires carrying killing currents? This is a subject for a profitable official investigation. The wire which burned the fingers off young Clements was supposed to be insulated. But the wearing against the limbs of the tree and the effect of the weather had rubbed the insulation off until the wire was naked. Boys will climb trees as long as trees grow. are the elect. that the boys should not climb into such dangerous places. First of all, the wires should long ago have been buried. But if by reason of obstructions in the law to their burial any high current wires now remain above ground, they should be carefully kept above reach or contact with any medium of communication with the ground. The burden of responsibility should rest at all times upon those who maintain the wires. The community demands that the boys be protected even if the electric companies have to buy a few new poles or cover their wires afresh with reliable insulation.

Utah and Beet Sugar.

The Utah republicans refused to indorse reciprocity with Cuba, but indorsed the administration and cheered Mr. Roosevelt's name. Isn't the administration thoroughly committed to reciprocity with Cuba? And hasn't Mr. Roosevelt declared that he will use his utmost influence when Congress reassembles to have that policy adopted? Why all the pother then at Ogden yesterday? The President in that general indorsement secures everything he needs. He means business in the Cuban matter, and as the plainly indicated choice of his party for the presistronger man next winter than he was last winter. The beet sugar interests cannot hope again to control the congressional situation. Their pretensions are too great. In other words, the people of the country are not disposed to permit beet sugar to be the whole thing. They are not wishing for or aiming at its destruction, but they are pretty well resolved that it shall not dictate national policy.

Growth of the Evening Paper. rom the Los Angeles Express.

Advance sheets of the second annual report of the new Associated Press, made by the directors to its members, offer an interesting study in respect to the growing popularity of the post-meridian newspaper business investment. Out of thirty new papers added to the membership roll of the organization in the twelve months elapsing since the previous report only seven are morning dailies, the remaining twenty-three being published in he afternoon. This large percentage of increase in the evening field over that of the morning argues that the number of people interested in getting the news the day it happens is constantly growing. If it is true as assert-ed and, so far as the Express has observed, uncontroverted, that more than twice as many evening papers are sold in the east as there are morning papers, how much more popular should the post-meridian paper become on the coast, where the news columns may be held open three hours longer than in New York and two hours longer than in

Said a well-known wholesale merchant of Los Angeles at the California Club one day this week: "I take the two morning papers. one at my office and one at my house. I glance over the headlines at the breakfast table and that is all. At the office, perhaps, I can snatch five minutes more to glance at the editorial page of the other paper. But in the afternon I get my evening paper in good season, carry it home, have plenty of leisure to digest its news and editorial columns, and then it is seized by the women folks, who have had no more time than I to read during the day." This is a typical experience of perhaps 90 per cent of the business men of this city and of every other city. Ask yourself if it is not your personal custom. More and more the retail advertisers everywhere are appreciating this habit, and the result is seen in the teeming business announcements with which the evening newspapers are

While morning papers on the coast still lead in point of circulation, their day of jubilation in this respect cannot last long if the natural order is observed. In addition to the advantages the evening paper has of the natural order is observed. In addition to the advantages the evening paper has of printing the news, six days out of seven, from sixteen to twenty hours ahead of the morning sheet, its time of issuance—that following the rush and hurry of the day's cares—conduces to a full perusal which is allke beneficial to the reader and to the advantage.
